Abstract: Leadership affects the success and failure of every type of organization, and the complexity of today's business environment makes leadership increasingly more challenging. This paper presented the employee leadership in corporate industries in the form of shared leadership. It is becoming more difficult for any single individual to possess all of the skills and abilities required to competently lead an organization today. Shared leadership is clearly understood with: Components of Shared Leadership, Shared Leadership in Education and healthcare organizations, Benefits of Shared Leadership and Limitations of Shared Leadership.
